The Fairhaven High School

the Senior Class presents

The Huttlestonian for 1946

Foreword

The issue of a Huttlestonian has always meant an annual renewal of acquaintance with the memory of a man whose sincere generosity is the reason for the existence of our school. No one can conceive of the time when our class book will not bear the familiar title which spiritually unites an ever increasing group of people in all walks of life. No one of us who is now a student at Fairhaven High School can remember our gracious benefactor. However, the passage of time has served to elevate him in our minds from the ranks of ordinary men, and make of his memory a living spirit.

We seniors hope that this spirit is reflected in our 1946 edition of The Huttlestonian. We have tried to make it a collection of memories and scenes which will bring strength to ourselves and entertainment to others who may browse through its pages. As we leave Fairhaven High School, our pledge is one of dedication -- self dedication to the ideals and principles dominant in the life of Henry Huttleston Rogers.

Dedication

The strife is over, the battle done, and many boys we know are returning home. But there are twenty-three who will not return, twenty-three who will sleep through eternity on the sandy shores or in the trackless seas of far-off lands. It is to these that we dedicate this issue of the class year-

Excerpts From A Diary

Keeping a diary is a pleasure for a member of a high school class. Roving through its pages in later years proves to be a nostalgic experience which brings back the events of one of the most satisfying periods in life. Let us take a look at a few pages from the diary of a member of the class of 1946 at Fairhaven High School.

September 14, 1942—I found myself today in the rooms of the Fairhaven High School Addition, a freshman at last. The faculty members were very helpful in giving directions as we all were somewhat confused at the array of classrooms and corridors. How can I ever keep up such a pace for four years?

October 6—Class elections came off today, and our Freshman Advisor, Miss Anna Peters, ably guided us through this important duty. A quick count gave the following results: president, Omar Renaud; vice president, Phyllis Hamer; secretary, Anna Marsh; treasurer George Snedden. Earl Serpa and Beryl Raybold were chosen for the executive committee to advise on affairs of import.

February 2, 1943—Mr. Downing spoke to the school today on Civilian Defense. It seems the school has its part to play in air raid protection and Mr. Downing asked for any interested boys to join the Messenger Corps. Some of us have joined and I have been rigorously studying first aid for the required course. I hope we shall not have any actual duty but it is always well to be prepared.

March 12—Went to a dance today in the gym, the admission fee to which was the purchase of a defense stamp. The dance was the idea of two classmates, Edward Harrington and Joseph Gonsalves, who have been very active in selling us war stamps in their patriotic effort to keep the Minute Man Flag flying. I personally believe credit for the fact that the flag is up is largely due to the work of these boys. At any rate, they haven't given me much peace lately.

March 30—Again today the Juniors won the Fairhaven "A" banner and I begin to despair of ever seeing it in a freshman home room. Of all things, I understand our stumbling block is after sessions! Imagine it! Still I suppose there is another year coming.

May 7—The Freshman Spring Hop is over, and I sit yawning at my desk to write this. Miss Peters, the Downings, the Woods, and several other faculty members graced the gym with their presence as patrons and patronesses. The careful planning and decorating made our only evening dance as freshmen a gala affair, and if everyone and his date enjoyed it as much as I, it was well worth the time spent.

June 22—Here it is at last—the final report card which announces that along with the rest I shall take up school life as a sophomore in September. Left school today in high spirits, anticipating a pleasant summer holiday and a higher station in life at its close.

* * *

September 13, 1943—Got into my school clothes today to begin my sophomore year. Everyone looked well and healthy after an invigorating summer, and I believe we shall all bear up nobly.

October 4—The war is still raging—and F. H. S. is still doing its part. I watched Mr. Downing lead outdoor ceremonies today in front of the school on the occasion of the first raising of the Minute Man Flag for the year. He asked us all to help keep the flag up by our continued War Stamp purchases, and we adjourned to the interior for classes as usual.

October 5—The bulletin today carried news that the following officers were elected by the class of 1946: president, Daniel Mahoney; vice president, Thomas Hannon; secretary, Anna Marsh; treasurer, Preston Gifford. All four hail from Room 17 and I have it straight from our expert on Mattapoissett affairs that the new

Mr. Mahoney is a promising young statesman. It looks good for year number two!

October 6—I spent most of the afternoon in the school library today. The occasion was a meeting for class officers and executive committees at which we learned when we can hold our dances. The "powers that be" decided that we sophomores are to have our class party and dance on November 5 (the only evening that was left after the juniors and seniors had selected dates). The latter are to unite with the sophomores in backing two dances later in the year, so we have much more of a finger in the social pie as sophomores than we did as freshmen.

November 6—I got home late last night as the sophomore class party made the school gym a place of gay entertainment. Most of us retired to Cox's or the Bridge Diner after bidding polite farewells to Mr. and Mrs. Downing, Mr. and Mrs. Wood, and Miss Marie R. Wentzell, our class advisor. The success of the dance was largely due to Miss Wentzell's very efficient guidance, which I understand it will be our good fortune to possess for the remainder of our stay in high school. Most of the fellows agree with me that she will probably endure a good many headaches before she is rid of us.

January 7, 1944—The joint upper class dances are coming soon, and I attended an executive meeting in room 11 today to make plans for their success. The first will be on February 11th, followed by another on April 28th. Various committees were selected to fulfill the many duties that accompany planning a dance. We sophomores didn't have much to say for we are at the bottom of the social ladder in the matter of these dances, but another year will see a great change, I am sure,

June 21—A well rounded school year ended today. We have finished half of high school and are somewhat run down. However, after a summer "rewinding" we shall be as good as new and ready to be just as troublesome as ever to our long suffering teachers. What a life!

* * *

September 11, 1944—Here I am again, back with the others at our desks in the junior home rooms of our dear old high school.

I really feel quite at home here now, and the looks of despair on the teachers' faces show that they know us pretty well too!

October 3—The yearly routine of class elections took place today.

When I read the results I learned we juniors chose the following: president, Daniel Mahoney (elected for another term on his record); vice president, Gardner Fassett (we needed a representative from that end of town); secretary, Faith Dudgeon (How did Mattapoissett get in here again?); treasurer, Jean Parkinson (that's J. P.'s daughter). It looks like a good choice for this crucial year.

January 24, 1945—At last! The class of 1946 walked away from an assembly this morning with the Fairhaven "A" award. It was a thrill to see President Mahoney accept the banner from Mr. Downing. We must have finally licked those aftersessions!

February 16—It's rather late at night, and the grease paint sticks to my face, as the last notes of the operetta "H. M. S. Pinafore" ring in my ears. The success of the final production, which took place tonight, was due, no doubt, to the fact that we juniors dominated the cast. Or could it have been that the efforts of Miss Hastings with the orchestra, and Mrs. Johnson, our new vocal supervisor, had something to do with it? At any rate, the house was full and the applause plentiful, both very good signs.

March 26—Today I attended the annual initiation of new members into the Fairhaven High School Honor Society. Vows were taken by twelve juniors, showing that the class of '46 has not forgotten its true purpose in high school. Miss Wentzell's ever present help and guidance made the ceremony an impressive one.

May 25—That old tradition once more renewed, the Junior Prom, took place tonight. I couldn't resist writing this before I tumble exhausted into bed. The addition hall was splashed with the colors and scenes of a circus big top. Among the banners and animal cages whirled the formally attired couples until the great moment arrived. Attended by the Misses Jean Parkinson, Margaret Jenkins, and Marianne Rogers, and by the ushers of the evening, Miss Geraldine Silveira, was enthroned in a magnificent stage setting to rule over a colossal grand march. Mattapoissett has done it again! I'm all ready to forgive them, though, because a prettier queen would be hard to find.

June 15—Junior Day—and a great day for us it has been. As I watched Gardner Fassett, our own Daniel Webster, on the stage, tearing the seniors to shreds, I realized how great a record we have achieved in our first three years of high school. As a smashing climax, tonight we staged the first successful Junior Day Dance to be seen around these parts for a good many years. A "red hot" orchestra and a goodly crowd prompted even the invited seniors to say that this admission-free dance was much more enjoyable than many for which they had bought tickets during the year. Yet they still wonder if Room 7 will be in good hands next September!

June 19—Once more I leave school for the summer, this time knowing that I shall only return once more. It is sobering to watch the seniors march to the stage clad in scholarly robes, and to realize that we shall soon be filling their places as they leave Fairhaven High School. Wish me luck, diary!

* * *

September 10, 1945—Here I am, home after my last "first day" of high school. We're all together now; all in Room 7 as seniors, and as a big problem for Mr. Lawton, too! That certainly sounds important, but things do not actually seem much different than they did to a bewildered freshman in September, 1942. One does grow old awfully fast, though.

October 3—On the blackboard today appeared the results of yesterday's balloting for class officers, a very important duty for seniors. Daniel Mahoney, our tried and true president, will be assisted by Naomi Gomes as vice president, Jean Parkinson as secretary, and Faith Dudgeon as treasurer. Mattapoissett is right up there, but I believe our chosen team will guide us successfully through the trials and complications of this final year. I know they will try hard, anyway.

October 28—I got into the social swing of things last night at our first dance of the year in the school gym. The affair was jointly sponsored by members of the four high school classes, as will be three more dances on December 7, March 1, and April 26. It seems to me that the place was overrun with freshmen. They must be trying out their wings, or something.

October 29—Miss Siebert today appointed an editorial staff to supervise the literary parts of what she hopes will be a very pretentious edition of The Huttlestonian for 1946. She is planning photographic schedules and the selection of an advisory board with the result that she has very little free time. To go through the agonies of compiling a classbook each year would seem to me a perfect Chinese torture. Good luck, Miss Siebert.

December 21—Our first Christmas celebration since the end of the war took place in the addition hall this morning, with Miss Hoyle's play-directing talent responsible for a very pleasant program. Her production, "Grandma's Christmas Gift," cast with members of the public speaking classes, was humorous without neglecting a helpful Christmas moral. Appropriate vocal music served to send me home from our last school session for 1945 with a high holiday spirit.

January 11, 1946—We seem to be no exception to the rule that senior classes need money, and to that end tryouts for our class play took place today in the small auditorium. Twelve of us received "contracts" with Miss Hoyle's players for the production "Every Family Has One," which will be presented in March. Miss Hoyle served notice that rehearsals begin next week, and when Miss Hoyle speaks we jump!

January 23—This morning, for the second successive time this year, I saw President Mahoney receive the Fairhaven "A" award from Mr. Downing. As seniors we seem to have learned what it takes to hold this coveted award, or at least we hope we have. Perhaps I had better hold my tongue and see what happens after two more months. Those juniors looked quite determined after the assembly program!

* * *

Many more interesting entries might be uncovered, but those we have selected seem to most accurately portray the trials and joys of high school life. At present, our senior play is scheduled for March 29, while graduation exercises are set for the nineteenth of June, accompanied by the customary, never-to-be-forgotten evening prom and banquet, and the solemn, inspiring baccalaureate service. We hope that you who read this, as you behold us in the scholarly vestments of graduation, will wish us godspeed on our journey into the waiting turmoil of life beyond the portals of our beloved high school.

Preston W. Gifford, Jr., '46.

The Class Will

We, the class of 1946, of the Fairhaven High School, County of Bristol and State of Massachusetts, being of legal age, sound mind and memory do make, publish, and declare this our last will and testament, hereby making void any promises made heretofore as the thoughtless wish of an idle hour.

- Item 1 To the Juniors we leave the task of upholding our superior scholastic record(?)
- Item 2 To Margaret Jenkins we leave a post-graduate course, by request of Fred Burke.
- Item 3 To Beryl Raybold we leave a copy of that popular hit song, "Come to Me, My Honey", or do I mean Mahoney?
- Item 4 To the faculty we leave one large case of cough drops, to administer to any forthcoming Everett Norcutts.
- Item 5 To Mr. Wood we leave one double-acting force pump to squirt at next year's physics class.
- Item 6 To Mr. Lawton we leave a public address system so that the class of '47 and its successors, seated in the rear of Room 7, can hear the bulletin.
- Item 7 To any Junior who wants them, Jack O'Leary leaves his convenient spasms of "T. B."
- Item 8 To any Junior who can figure out the combination to his left hip pocket, Fred Ames leaves his hoard of lunch-room tangerines.
- Item 9 To Miss Jameson the cast of the Senior Play leaves its thanks for the sandwiches which sustained them during long rehearsals.
- Item 10 To any Junior who fears neglect in class, Preston Gifford leaves his "Eh-Ahem!"
- Item 11 To any Junior with a large oral cavity, Ralph Bradley leaves eight packages of gum. Incidentally eight packages is "Swisha's" capacity at one time.

- Item 12 To any Junior who wants to be a hog-caller, "Teen" Cunningham leaves her great big classroom voice.
- Item 13 To any Junior boy who wants broad shoulders, Earl Serpa leaves his collection of padded sport coats. Earl says, "After all, what's Humphrey Bogart got that I can't have sewn into my suit?"
- Item 14 To Pat Dumont, "Peg" Stetson leaves her long, curly locks.
- Item 15 To Jimmy Gast, "Al" Dias leaves his copious quantity of rich black hair. Jimmy seems to have lost his.
- Item 16 To Mrs. Williams, Paul Ganley leaves his eye strengthening course. That's in case she mislays her glasses.
- Item 17 To any up-and-coming Junior physicist, Bob Haslam leaves his position as Mr. Wood's left-hand man.
- Item 18 To Claude Tucker, "Peck" Francis leaves his many speeding tickets, which he got for flying his car too low.
- Item 19 To any Junior girl who comes in early nights, Faith Dudgeon leaves her long hair. You can't stay out late and put your hair up too, you know.
- Item 20 To Pat Dumont, Nancy Leadbetter leaves her many chauffeurs with hopes that Pat will never have to walk.
- Item 21 To the High School Music Society, John Moreau leaves two dollars ($2.00) and a "B" flat tuning fork to retune the pianos after he gets through playing his boogie.
- Item 22 To Kenneth Peirce, Garner Fassett leaves his puns and corney jokes with hopes that next year's senior class will be as much fun as ours has been.

In witness hereof, I, Gardner L. Fassett, Jr., have hereunto set my hand to this, the will and testament of the senior class of '46, this 25th day of March in the year of our Lord 1946, and of the independence of the United States the 171st.

Gardner L. Fassett, Jr.

Prophecy of the Class of 1946

A beautiful day in May 1946, and a free twenty-minute study period give me an opportunity to leave the stuffy classrooms and take a walk in Cushman Park, breathing in the fresh air of early Spring. As I make my way along the winding paths of the park, a secluded spot behind two large oak trees looks like an inviting place to rest my weary body. This, being a perfect way in which to put the thought of Miss Roger's coming history test out of my mind, I sit down, and a peaceful sleep overcomes me in a very few minutes.

TIME MARCHES ON

I awake with a start as the Town Hall clock strikes two! I hadn't meant to sleep so long. I rub my eyes, stretch my legs and hurry back towards school. I do not recognize any of the passing students who look at me so strangely. I hasten up the steps and into Room 7. The teacher sitting behind the desk trying in vain to show a sophomore that x does equal y, is Preston Gifford. Mary Anthony and Joe Laronda are standing in the West Office handing out aftersessions to trembling freshmen. I cannot understand this! The man who is telling a student traffic officer to give out a few aftersessions looks like former Traffic Squad lieutenant, Steve Hall. An irritated voice coming from Room 11 sounds familiar: — "Comprenez-vous? Non!" The name on the door reads—Mademoiselle Dudgeon—Maitre de Francais.

Still receiving surprised stares, I leave the High School and walk towards the Center. Everything looks so strange, and I am in a very puzzled state of mind. On the corner where the burned Methodist Church stood, a magnificent granite church has been erected. The bulletin board on the lawn tells of Sunday services with the loquacious Rev. John Taber as preacher. This is impossible! I must be dreaming! What has happened? As I walk past the Town Hall, a group of grammar school children look at me and begin to giggle. Can I look that funny? In front of the library, I see Gerry Randall taking a picture of Librarian Mary Quinn. A large poster advertising a New York vaudeville act starring Fairhaven's own Billy Rogers, catches my attention.

The large building across the street is nearly obscured by a huge sign — VOTE FOR HANNON FOR MAYOR. This tops everything! Either I'm seeing things or going crazy. I must do something before it is too late. The sign in the doorway of the building reads — Psychologist — Dr. Olaf "The Brain" Drivdahl. The other door leads to Osteopath Eunice Bradley's office. The loud screams coming from this office also sound familiar. The nurse, Jane Taylor, informs me that it's only George Emile Benoit who comes for regular treatments. I started walking towards Dr. Drivdahl's office door when I saw a terrible looking, bearded man glaring at me from inside the office. I stepped away from the door. He stepped away, also. I started toward the door and he started, too. Now I know how Mr. Wood felt when he tried to leave that department store by way of a mirror, for that was my reflection in the door!

Now I am beginning to understand what has happened! I need to see a good barber, and not a psychologist. I hurry from the office around the corner to a barber shop. The bewildered barber does not recognize me as I grab a newspaper and jump into the nearest chair. The barber, of course, is Al Dias. The first part of the paper that I see is the date—1962. Now everything is very clear!

The headlines say that the terrific explosions heard in Fairhaven and surrounding towns yesterday, were caused by eccentric Prof. Haslam whose latest invention is a gun that shoots around corners. The second page has an article on the greatest band in the land. It seems John Moreau, Jack O'Leary and Pat Reed's husband have combined talents. I see also under local news that Dick Cardoza can see no reason why the City Council won't grant him licenses to build a string of liquor stores along Sconticut Neck Road. Nancy Leadbetter and Peggy Stetson are the temperance leaders opposing Dick's plan. The town is also trying to make Gardner Fassett be serious long enough to finish the design for the new jail. Newly-elected sheriff, Tom Thompson, has no place to put Fairhaven's law breakers.

Reading on further, I find Kay Ann McKnight, well-known authoress, has just completed her latest best-seller, "Why Women are Superior to Men." On the sport page, I see that Ralph Bradley has just pitched a no-hit exhibition game for the New York Red Sox. Pauline Pifko was leading scorer for Fairhaven's famous Girl's Basketball Team with 57 points last night. Fairhaven won 58-9.

"Latest Hollywood Gossip," by Anne MacKinnon, relates that Anna Marsh, the poor man's Garbo, has been seen on the corner of Hollywood and Vine with the 2nd Rudolf Valentino, Harry Barteau.

As my 16 years old growth of hair and beard is shorn, I glance at the last page advertising Al "Atlas" Cyr's five-minute a day program for adding muscles to any man in the world, for the small fee of $99.99.

I leave the barber shop feeling like a new man and begin looking around at new Fairhaven. Browne's Pharmacy has dropped the "e" in the name, and now is owned by Mary Brown. Beatrice Sylvia and Pat Tetreault are managing the store for Mary. Naomi Gomes, Sophie Victorino, and Edna Ribeiro are sitting in the corner booth having an argument. Edna thinks her husband is the handsomest man in the city, while Naomi and Sophie both contend that their respective husbands are handsomer by far. As I leave the drug store, a super-deluxe car goes whizzing by. The driver is "Beak" Cummings, and that fellow riding on the mudguard and peering under the hood looks like Hudson Hardy. I found out later that "Beak" and Bruce Francis have a bet on whose car can go the fastest. Bruce has David Brownell helping him get more speed out of his car, while Hudson is performing the mechanical duties for "Beak."

The little building that was occupied by the Ideal Fish Market is now the elaborate store of Chandler and Ganley, Inc. — specialists in all kinds of fish from sardines to whales. I hear that George Christensen's fishing fleet, with shipper Fred Ames, provides the store with the sardines.

I think I shall ask the fellow coming down the street about the best method of transportation out to Mattapoisett. I wonder if the old town has changed as much as Fairhaven. My informer is none other than Gus Bonito who tells me that I can hop a plane from Earl Serpa's airport. Gus is in a great hurry to see the matinee at the Fort St. Theatre. Elma Andreason and Marion Carter dancing in a famous Russian Ballet. And so Gus hurrys off; and I enter the airport office. Marianne Rogers, at the information booth, tells me that the "Flying Footman", with pilot, Everett Norcutt, is taking off in three minutes. Lorraine Perry and Evelyn Martin are the two secretaries busily typing in the next room.

Taking my seat on the plane, I find that Allen Tinkham is sitting in front of me. He says that he has a little farm on Tinkman Hill in Mattapoissett, and has just agreed to sell all the logs on his land to Nappy Oliveria, whose saw mill is the pride and joy of East Fairhaven. The plane leaves the ground and before long we are racing through the Mattapoissett sky. Allen points down at the bend in the Mattapoissett River where three farm-houses are located in the middle of a large plot of cultivated land. He informs me that Lois Martin, Beryl Hueberger, and Edna Howard have settled there with their small families of seven, eight, and nine children.

As the plane circles for a landing over a small airport in the middle of the Tinkhamtown woods, I see a group of photographers and reporters standing near the hanger below. It seems that Beryl Raybold, the well-known artist, is also on the "Flying Footman," and is planning to spend a short vacation in Mattapoissett. As the plane gracefully lands and taxis to a stop, the reporters come rushing onto the field. Escaping out the rear door, I hailed a taxi driven by Barbara Frates who is taking her sick husband's place today. Inquiring about the hurrying reporters, I find that Margaret Jenkins and Jean Parkinson have just started a newspaper, "The Mattapoissett Blah." A keen rivalry has developed between them and the long established "Mattapoissett Gazette" run by Joe Ariea and Jean Racine.

Going on further, I can see Tinkhamtown has changed very little except for a large dairy farm on Crystal Spring Road. Juliet Doberck and Priscilla Draper,, heiresses of a large fortune, are investing their money in this huge farm. They have hired Robert Crapo to supervise the running of their newlybuilt possession, and are hoping for large profits soon. Coming into town, the whistle of a speeding express train can be heard in the distance. Well, I'll be! Jane Smith, standing on the porch of her Depot Street home, is waving to the engineer as the limited races by. Barbara tells me that the 1945 chemistry class's prediction, that Jane would marry a train engineer, has come true.

The houses on Tobey Lane have all been torn down, and a large hospital now stands there. The group of nurses walking toward the main entrance are Ethel Costa, Rita Staffiere and Dolores Santos. The two doctors with a gleam in their eyes and a scalpel in each hand, are Roland Boucher and Donald Purrington. Jean St. Germaine, and Dolores Costa are the superintendents in charge of the establishment.

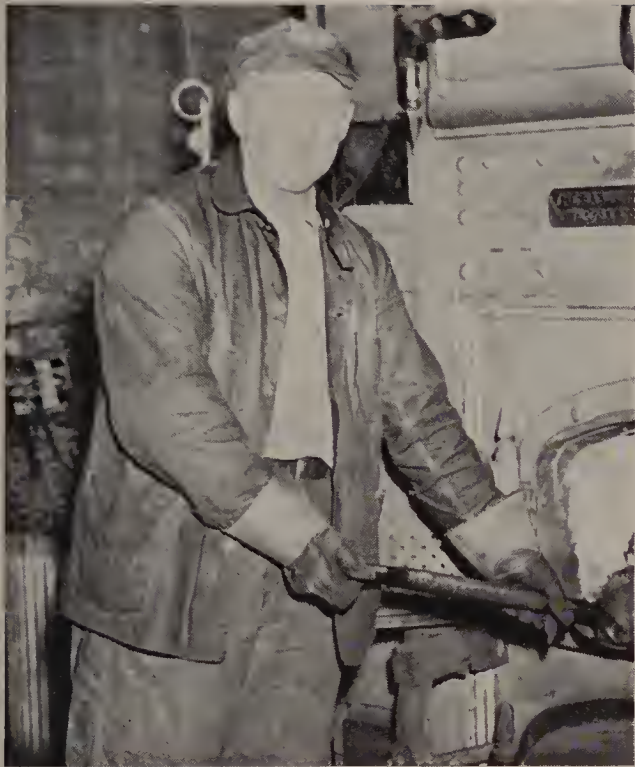

The long black car just turning the corner is taking the cream of New York society, Jean Miller, to the town wharf, in order that she might board her yacht, "Neverleak". The chauffeur, John Noblet, is stopping to pick up three of Jean's former classmates, Shirley Raiche, Barbara Long and Pauline Lewis. The noise coming from the dress shop at the foot of Barstow Street, is only Teen Cunningham's husband protesting against modeling Teen's latest creations. I learned that she was always sticking pins into him.

As I neared home, I was told that many changes had been made in Mattapoisett Center School. Jo-Ann Cargill, June Kelley, Barbara Tinkham and Irene Merchant have joined the faculty. Mary Spencer has just begun her new job as office girl. Janet Dunwoodie, orchestra supervisor, is giving special lessons on the art of playing the flute. Pearl Reece, famed pianist, is giving a special concert tonight in the school auditorium.

And so, as I enter my humble abode inspired by the high stations in life, which have come to most of my former classmates, I decide that perhaps I had better go back to dear old F. H. S. and take up where I left off in 1946.

Activities

The Honor Society

The Fairhaven High School Chapter of the National Honor Society was founded on the four ideals of Scholarship, Leadership, Character, and Service. The emblem of this society is the shield and flaming torch, and its colors are blue and yellow. In March of each year, the students who have previously been chosen on the basis of scholastic achievement and service to the school, are initiated at an impressive ceremony, while the new officers are installed in June.

Officers of the Honor Society for the year 1945-1946 are Preston Gifford, President; Daniel Mahoney, Vice-President; Anne MacKinnon, Secretary; Marilyn Morris, Treasurer.

The active members, all of the Class of 1946, are Harry Barteau, Robert Haslam, Joseph Laronda, Katherine McKnight, Irene Merchant, John Moreau, Jean Parkinson, Shirley Raiche, Patricia Reed, Mary Spencer, and Jean St. Germain.

Faith Dudgeon, '46

The Student Council

As in the past, the Student Council has been active in several worthy undertakings this year.

One of these excellent projects was the providing of a library for the American Merchant Marine Library Association. In our shop, a chest was constructed to specifications furnished by the Association. The chest when closed makes transportation of the books easy; when open it provides a convenient bookcase to display the books and magazines given by our students. Another activity was a basketball game for the benefit of the motion picture projector fund. Most of the members of this organization take part in many other school activities, and each one represents his class and homeroom.

The officers for the council for the year 1945-1946 are Margaret Jenkins, President; Fred Burke, Vice-President; Naomi Gomes, Secretary-Treasurer.

Faith Dudgeon, '46

The Band

The Fairhaven High School Band has an enrollment of fifty-five members this year. The activities of this organization have included: playing at football games, at home and away, exhibition games for convalescents at Camp Edwards, assisting at ceremonies when members of Patton's army were decorated, participation in memorial exercises at Marine Park for naval dead, and for V-Day in New Bedford.

Now the band is preparing to participate in May at the Massachusetts Music Festival in Needham and the New England Festival at Gloucester.

A new plan initiated at rehearsals this winter has been to invite the most advanced seventh grade players to meet with the band on Thursday evenings.

Anne MacKinnon, '46

The Orchestra

Fifty members of the Fairhaven High School Senior Orchestra rehearse weekly under the direction of Mr. Arey. To enter this organization it is necessary to pass a test in rhythm, tune, and sight-reading.

The Junior Orchestra with a membership of forty-five receives instruction from Mr. Gonsalves. This group is the intermediary step between elementary school orchestras and the senior group. Here members learn to follow more skilfully a conductor, to increase speed at sight reading, and to execute more difficult music for assemblies.

This year both senior and junior orchestras have presented excellent musical programs with fine soloists as added features.

The advanced ensemble of twelve members of outstanding ability has again been formed to assist in community service.

An interesting addition to our music groups has been an all Fairhaven High School dance band directed by John Moreau. The boys have been very busy with a variety of engagements for school and community.

Dear Judy:

You were in your Senior Play last year, so you'll realize how thrilled I am when I tell you that we had play tryouts today and I got a part. We're doing an hilarious little comedy called "Every Family Has One" by George Batson. You knew Beryl Raybold, didn't you? Well she's going to be my mother and George Christiansen, my father. Pearl Reece will make a darling kid sister, and Gardner Fassett got the part of Warry, my love sick brother trying to handle his romantic interests, and at the same time, write a book.

Preston Gifford, Jean Miller and Earl Serpa compose the odious Parker family, a lot of stuffed shirts, while Harry Barteau will be Todd Gallaway; Pauline Lewis is sweet as Lily, and Irene Merchant so very funny as the maid. Anna Marsh is my grandmother, clever and crafty, I can tell you. I'm so happy!

Love,

Marianne

February 3

Dear Judy:

Rehearsals are going pretty well, despite the long hours and hard work. It's really loads of fun, especially when the boys bring over boxes of ice cream from Jack's to satisfy our mid-afternoon hunger, or kind Miss Jameson sends us up surprise sandwiches from the lunchroom. We go into long screams of laughter over Earl's face behind his huge, horn rimmed glasses, Penelope's manipulation of her mammoth sling shot and Gifford's trials with his monocle. Poor Miss Hoyle! She has a cast full of headaches. She's an awfully clever woman if she can make Thespians out of us!

Love,

Marianne

April 2

Dear Judy:

Well, it's all over, and everyone says it was a great success, so who am I to argue? The audience howled at Lily and her pogo stick, Essie and her doughnut hairdo, Nana and her jive, and the brat and her destruction. Giffie was troubled all evening by his synthetic stomach which dropped. You know, it's a funny thing, but I'll bet that Dolores Costa and Janet Dunwoodie, the property managers, and Jean St. Germain, our faithful prompter, were more nervous than anyone else!

Were you thinking of us during our big evening? I'll bet you had your fingers crossed because you went through it last year. But it's over now, and Dan Mahoney and Steve Hall have moved the last piece of scenery. We'll always remember! What fun!

Love,

Marianne

Le Cercle Francais

Cette année, notre cercle se réunit à la mairie de Fairhaven. Il y a dix-sept membres qui y vont toutes les semaines. Le réunion est dirigée par Mademoiselle Giguère, notre professeur de francais. A ces réunions, il faut que l'on parle francais ou contribue de l'argent pour payer un grand diner que nous allons prendre à la fin de l'année.

Faith Dudgeon, '46

Autour de notre Cercle Francais, il y a une chaine qui réunit les membres. Chaque anneau est un de nos projets. Le premier anneau est d'écrire à des élèves en France qui sont du même age que nous. Nous avons des correspondents à Paris, à le Mans et, à Brest.

Le deuxième anneau est d'envoyer des colis à la famille francaise que nous avons adoptée. C'est la famille Loussouam, de Finistère. Mimi Loussouam, agée de 18 ans, nous a écrit que famais elle n'oublierait ses amis américains de Fairhaven.

Jeanne Taylor, '46

Le troisième anneau est l'examen oral de Cours III. Pour cela, nous sommes en train de préparer des discours, des dialogues, et même une pièce de théâtre. Harry Barteau et William Rogers ont composé un drama policier, intitulé L'Hotel Meurtrier. Nous vous invitons cordialement à venir le voir le 7 juin.

Jean Moreau, '46

N'êtes-vous pas étonnés? Vous ne vous attendiez pas à une page de français dans votre "Huttlestonian"? Eh, bien nous avons voulu vous surprendre. Regardez la photographie. C'est notre classe de français, Cours III, et les membres du cercle français. Nous portons tous nos meilleurs sourires français, et nous espérons que cela vous plaira.

Marianne Cartier, '46

Vocal Ensemble

Our Vocal Ensemble, under the direction of Mrs. Marguerite Johnson, consists of no more than twenty-five mixed voices of students who wish to continue their study beyond that of the regular chorus.

This year, the Ensemble took part in a Christmas program for the Fairhaven-Mattapoisett Teachers' Association. It was in the form of musical illustrations of the Christmas Bible Story which was told by a narrator. The choir wore their new, black vestments on this occasion and also at a school assembly held just before the Christmas holidays.

By the end of the year the choir will have attended the Needham, Massachusetts Festival, scheduled for May 11, as a Class C high school group. It will also have the privilege of singing at the Eastern New England Festival, if it receives a good rating.

The group will sing for the Senior Vesper services, Graduation exercises, and during Music Week.

Girls' Athletic Association

Athletics

Basketball

The basketball team this year had a very successful season. The first game, with Bourne, was the only loss. However, the girls quickly made up for it by drowning Dartmouth, 39-14. The next game, a benefit game at Fairhaven, again proved their skill, when they beat St. Joseph's team 44-25. The three following conflicts saw the team score their way to victory. We hope next year's team will be able to boast of having such a season!

SWIMMING

With the opening of the New Bedford Y. W .C. A. pool, it was possible to include swimming in our sport program. Both recreational and instructive swimming were offered to the twenty-nine girls who signed up for the ten week period.

Hockey

Second row—Barbara Gilston, Mary Brown, Janet Dunwoodie, Irene Merchant, Olive Rogers.

There were no class teams in this sport this year. However, a varsity team was formed. The first of the two games they played was with Bourne High School, at Bourne. It ended in a 0-0 score. The second and return game with Bourne, was played on the Fairhaven field, and proved to be a close tussle, ending in another tie, 1-1.

BOWLING

Fifty girls have this year taken advantage of the opportunity to use the Bowling allies. A league of ten teams was formed, and bowled for six weeks.

OTHER ACTIVITIES

Ping Pong and badminton tournaments were run off at the end of the bowling season. A softball team was formed in April, and from then until June, intramural games were played between the classes.

Football

Fairhaven started its 1945 football season with only four lettermen from 1944's Bristol County Champions. These veterans were Al Dias, Dan Mahoney, Norbet Desroches, and Ralph Bradley. However, under the expert guidance of Mr. Entin, this green team improved with each game, until at the end of the season they defeated Plymouth 19-7. The team's record was three wins, four losses, and one tie.

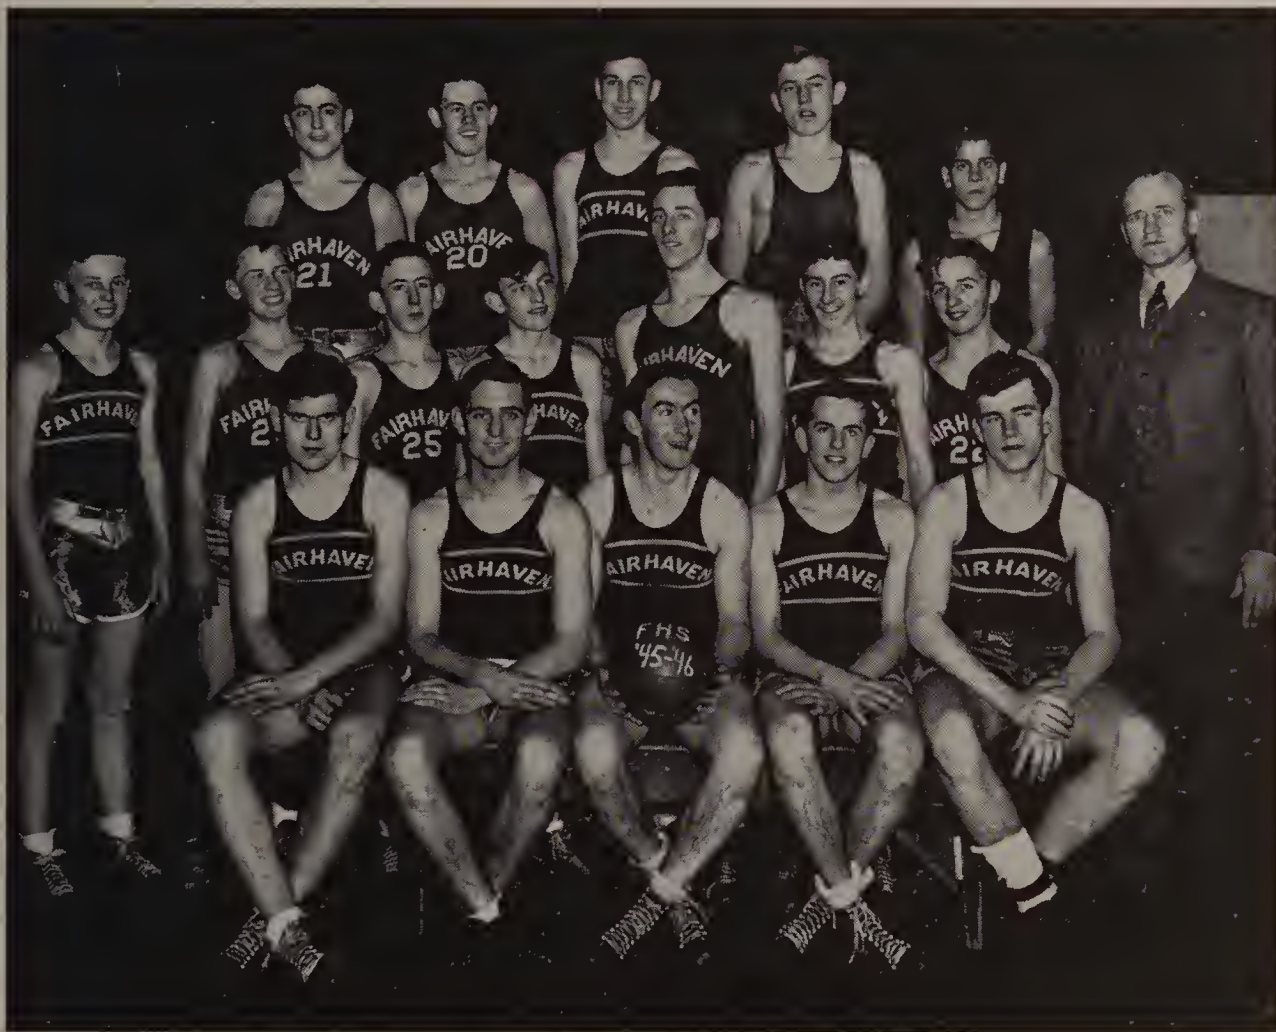

It's ground game stalled in the first game, Fairhaven took to the air. A dangerous passing attack was developed. A beautifully executed hidden end play resulted in a touchdown in less than a minute following the opening kickoff of the Taunton game. A surprised Taunton back was seen asking another Taunton man what had happened following this play.

The spirit of the team was always excellent and they practiced faithfully every day. Even in defeat, this inexperienced team gave a good account of itself, and a sizeable crowd urged them on to greater effort in all the games.

With several lettermen coming back next year and the addition of Mr. Clement to the coaching staff, we are looking forward to a good season.

Thomas Ingham, '47

Basketball

Coach Alec Clement, who recently returned from the Navy, came back to Fairhaven in time to take over the coaching reins of the basketball team.

Unfortunately, he came back to a green team which had lost nearly all of the strength that had carried Fairhaven to the M. I. T. Tournament last year. The season ended with but two of the seventeen games in the win column. Although the record is not very impressive, we lost most of our games by four points and less. Many of these, such as the 36-35 defeat at the hands of a great New Bedford High team were real heartbreakers.

The team had fine spirit and fought hard in every game from start to finish. However, despite its diligent practising and scrappy playing, Lady Luck gave no help to this year's basketball team.

Thomas Ingham, '47

The Cheerleaders

The cheerleaders' squad consists of seven this year. The senior cheerleaders are Beryl Raybold and Katherine Ann McKnight. The Juniors are represented by Elaine Godreau, Janice Hayden and Martha Wardick. The Sophomore girls are Ann Perkins and Barbara Lawton.

Try-outs for the position of cheerleader are open to all with the beginning of the new policy. Mattapoisett girls are eligible as are girls from all classes. This will broaden the opportunity of any girl to become a Fairhaven High cheerleader.

NOT A WAR BABY . . .

Aerovox is NOT a war baby. Long before Pearl Harbor, in fact since 1922, Aerovox has been busy making capacitors. Since 1938 Aerovox has occupied the same huge plant. Aerovox employs many people whom it trained in this particular craftsmanship.

Aerovox capacitors are as essential in PEACE as they are in war. In the postwar era millions of new radios will be made and sold.

Millions of new electric refrigerators will be manufactured. Many new electronic products will come into existence, all of which require millions upon millions of Aerovox capacitors.

Aerovox is all out for PEACETIME PROGRESS, just as it was all out to win the war. Capable, conscientious, get-ahead workers know that their Aerovox jobs are permanent, because Aerovox is NOT a war baby.
